

Supplemental Needs Trust

Many accident victims are rendered disabled as a result of the injuries they sustain. In such cases our priority is to protect the interest of our clients' recovery as well as protecting their eligibility for benefits they may continue to receive. Medical care, particularly long term nursing home care paid for by Medicare, comes immediately to mind, but there are numerous other benefits our clients may rely upon.

These services can be protected by establishing a trust known as a supplemental needs trust. It can be established by a parent, grandparent, or by an order of the court. Our firm is equipped to not only get you a recovery if you are injured but also to set up the mechanisms which allow you to keep your just recovery.
